Brillants. Attirants. Et terriblement inaccessibles. Mon prof de maths est habile avec ses... équations. Mon prof d'anglais est le champion quand il s'agit de titiller mes... verbes irréguliers. Et mon prof de français est magnifique quand il étudie en profondeur... la conjugaison. J'adore leurs cours. Je m'assieds toujours au premier rang. Et je lève le doigt à chacune de leurs questions. Jusqu'au jour où je les vois profiter de mon petit numéro au Club V, où je gagne quelques sous pour mes études en montrant mes... talents. Je pensais qu'ils arrêteraient de venir en comprenant que je travaille là-bas. Mais maintenant qu'ils m'y ont repérée, ils semblent incapables de détourner le regard. Et le mec à qui je viens de faire ma danse spéciale? Il s'agit de mon prof d'anglais. Et je le revois demain matin à huit heures. Cette romance entre élève et professeurs, torride et exubérante, met en scène des hommes actifs qui adorent séduire et protéger les femmes qui leur en donnent pour leur argent. That Murder in the Cathedral is only one of a series of murder stories featuring Inspector T.S. Eliot? That all Shakespeare's plots were combined in one earth-shattering play called The Two Henry V's of Verona? Or that a missing chapter from the Gideon Bible describes exactly how God came to create the first hotel? All these classics, and another forty or so like them, are featured in this unique compendium of world literature, compiled under hygienic conditions in our very own laboratories. Miles Kington gave the best years of his life (well, 1985 and 1986) reducing these masterpieces to manageable size, then translating them into Franglais, that fragrant language which combines the poetry of French with the directness of English, plus a touch of garlic on the side. Books consulted in research for this work: Everything that has ever been written. Further information: Franglais Advisory Bureaux, on board all good cross-Channel ferries. Proceedings of the First International Congress of Parasitology, Volume One focuses on the advancements of processes, methodologies, approaches, and reactions involved in parasitology. The selection first offers information on the role of molluscan hosts in trematode speciation; ecological analysis of the fluke fauna of birds in the USSR; digenetic trematodes of fishes as indicators of the ecology, phylogeny, and zoogeography of their hosts; and aspects of the biology of a monogenean skin parasite. The text then examines bacterial flora as one of the etiological factors influencing the establishment of parasites in the bowel of their host, responses of helminths to temperature gradients, and reservoir parasitism in helminths. The publication takes a look at the physical and biochemical characteristics of helminth glycogens; effect of insulin on glucose uptake and glycogen synthesis in the liver fluke Fasciola hepatica L.; regulation of glycogen synthesis in the liver fluke Fasciola hepatica L.; and changes in catalase activity during embryonation of Ascaris eggs and its relationship to respiration and cytochrome oxidase activity. The selection is a vital reference for researchers interested in parasitology. Teach yourself French Language with the all-new and exciting book Beginning French Language. Aimed at students at the CEFR B1 or ACTFL Intermediate-High level, the textbook uses a step-by-step progression of language-learning tasks and activities to develop students' skills at the CEFR C1 or ACTFL Advanced-High level. Authentic documents present students with tasks they will encounter as engineering students or interns in France. Online resources include a teacher handbook and a workbook with vocabulary-building activities, grammar-mastery exercises, and listening and reading comprehension activities, followed by questions requiring critical thinking. It is organized in parallel with the textbook based on the flipped-classroom concept. Alice et Max sont turbulents. Pas une seule bêtise ne leur échappe pour faire tourner en bourrique leur institutrice. Elle finit par rendre les armes. Arrive alors un nouveau directeur : un troll. Il règne sans pitié sur l'école en forçant les élèves à travailler toute la journée dans une mine d'or. A la moindre incartade, ils sont dévorés par la créature. Alice et Max tentent de se rebiffer mais les adultes ne semblent pas prendre au sérieux leur détresse... Qui pourrait croire de tels garnements ? This book examines the effects of a study abroad experience on students' culture and identity and the impact of these effects on their readjustment to their home culture. It explores issues of culture and identity from the perspective of French students studying in Australia. Issues of perceived cultural proximity between France and Australia, a relative lack of prior knowledge of the host country before the period of study and the impact of distance all influence aspects of these students' experiences. Employing long-term and cross-sectional studies focusing on culture shock, reverse culture shock and cultural identity issues, the author investigates the cyclical journey of French academic sojourners and examines the impact of the acculturation and repatriation processes and the language experiences on their perceptions of cultural identity. Once the students had traversed the difficult stages of culture shock and reached the stage of full recovery (adjustment), they no longer wished to go home. What impact has this process had on the returnees who faced the insularity of their home society once they returned home? Is the French community beginning to acknowledge the start of a brain-drain of the educated French overseas? What are the implications for borderless higher education? What value should be placed on pre-departure preparation from participating institutions and the individuals themselves, both on a linguistic and a psychological level? This book poses questions relating to these issues.
