History of Chemoattractant Research

Aug 23

2020 In the

Research Topic

"History of

Chemoattractant

Research" we will

portray some of the key discoveries that helped to transform

cell migration

research into a

global playing field

within immunology

(and beyond). Early

progress had a

profound effect on

both, academia and industry. Today,

numerous academic

laboratories are

fully engaged in

compiling a

detailed road map

describing the

highly complex

network of immune

and tissue cells that respond to

chemoattractants.

Industrial research,

on the other hand,

centers on drugs

that interfere with

immune cell traffic

in inflammatory

diseases and

cancer. The following series of

"short stories"

provide personal

accounts on key discoveries. The individual

molecular

discoveries enabled

numerous research

laboratories

worldwide to

unravel their

significance in

steady-state or

pathological

immune processes.

Although ground-

breaking in their own right, it is

therefore worth

emphasizing that

rapid progress in

chemoattractant

research was made possible by many

other laboratories

who were not

directly involved in the original

discovery process.

Therefore, the

authors of this mini-

series are

discussing their findings in the context of time, place and subsequent progress enabled by their discoveries. It is hoped that a wide readership will find these accounts entertaining as well as educational although those who wish to gain a more detailed knowledge are referred to the many outstanding reviews on chemokines and other chemoattractants. CXC Chemokines—Advances in Research and Application: 2012 Edition May 12 2022 CXC Chemokines—Advances in Research and Application: 2012 Edition is a ScholarlyEditions™ eBook that delivers timely,

global economic liberalisation and development in Africa; African
diasporas,
academics and the struggle for a
global epistemic
presence; and the problem of translation in African studies.
Part two considers:
African and area
studies in France,
the US, the UK,
Australia, Germany
and Sweden; anti-colonialism and Russian/soviet African studies;
African studies in the Caribbean in historical perspective; the

Community College Models

Jun 13 2022
Increasingly, students worldwide are seeking post-secondary education to acquire new skill-sets and credentials. There is an explosion of community college models that provide educational opportunities and alternative pathways for students who do not fit the traditional higher educational profile. This book focuses on economic models to help local and national economies develop strong workforce training, humanitarian models to bring about social mobility and peace, transformative models to help institutions expand and keep up with societal needs, and newly created models that respond to the educational and training needs of a constantly changing world. These models seek to capture the imagination of those who are committed to learning about what works in higher education and in particular, the impact community college models are having on the changing nature of world social, political and economic landscapes. With contributors representing 30 countries, this book presents an international perspective.

Social Studies for the Caribbean Jan 20 2023

General History of the Caribbean Apr 30 2021 The major objective of this publication is to provide an account and interpretation of the historical development of the region from around 1930 to the end of the century. Within its compass are the "turbulent thirties", including the Cuban Revolution of 1933 and the labour protests in the British Caribbean of 1934; the strategic position occupied by the region during the Second World War; the development of proletarian movements and trade unions and their links with political parties; decolonization; political evolution in the French and Dutch Caribbean, and the "turn to the left" made in the 1970s by a number of Anglophone Caribbean countries, notably Grenada. Also examined are the Castro Revolution and its aftermath to the 1990s; ethnicity and race consciousness and their effects in uniting or dividing communities and nations; international relations and regional co-operation; changes in social and demographic structures (including the role and status of women); education, migration and urbanization; and the beliefs and cultural experiences which underpin Caribbean identity. The final chapter provides an overall survey of changes in the quality of life in the Caribbean during the twentieth century.

The Tumor Immunoenvironment Jul 22 2020

Analysis of multidirectional immunological responses at the tumor site allows forming a new concept of The Tumor Immunoenvironment, which is introduced and discussed in the present book with a particular focus on the role of immune cells in controlling the tumor microenvironment at different stages of cancer development. The main goal of this publication is to provide an overview of the current knowledge on the complex and unique role of the immune system, tumor-associated inflammation and tumor-mediated immunomodulation in cancer progression in a way that allows understanding the logistics of cellular and molecular interactions in the tumor lesions.

General History of the Caribbean: Methodology and historiography of the Caribbean Feb 21 2023 This volume looks at the ways historians have written the history of the region, depending upon their methods of interpretation and differing styles of communicating their findings. The chapters discussing methodology are followed by studies of particular themes of historiography. The second half of the volume describes the writing of history in the individual territories, taking into account changes in society, economy and political structure. The final section is a full and detailed bibliography serving not only as a guide to the volume but also as an invaluable reference for the General History of the Caribbean as a whole.

Shaped Us Dec 19 2022 Few historical subjects have generated such intense and sustained interest in recent decades as Britain's imperial past. What accounts for this preoccupation? Why has it gained such purchase on the historical imagination? How has it endured even as its subject slips further into the past? In seeking to answer these questions, the proposed volume brings together some of the leading figures in the field, historians of different generations, different nationalities, different methodological and theoretical perspectives and different ideological persuasions. Each addresses the relationship between their personal development as historians of empire and the larger forces and events that helped to shape their careers. The result is a book that investigates the connections between the past and the present, the private and the public, the professional practices of historians and the political environments within which they take shape. This intellectual genealogy of the recent historiography of empire will be of great value to anyone studying or researching in the field of imperial history.
