Schools That Change Aug 24 2020 Learn from schools that have made meaningful, positive, and lasting changes! The author presents an in-depth look at eight schools, winners of the National School Change Awards, that have transformed from low-performing into exemplary national status. Smith uses qualitative research, specific examples, and portraiture to offer an inside view of the day-to-day dynamics of school change. This insightful book examines questions such as: Why are some schools able to change while other schools cannot? Why are people challenged by change? What is the best way to measure change? What professional characteristics must principals develop to bring about significant and sustainable change?

Our National Schools of Science (Classic Reprint) Dec 08 2021 Excerpt from Our National Schools of Science Under these circumstances we think that the epithet employed for the first time in the heading Of this article is a fit designa tion Of a class Of institutions rapidly organizing in all the loyal States. They are in fact, if not in name, the National Schools Of Science, distinguished from all other schools and colleges by the reception Of an endowment from the nation, obliged to conform to certain requirements Of the national legislature, and bound to print and publish annually a report Of their progress. It is true that the general government has no other control over them than to insist upon a fulfilment of the requirements Of the statute by which they were created. But the nation gave birth to them the nation provided their dowry the na tion is to reap the benefits which they are designed to render. Very few persons understand the momentous significance Of the Act of Congress for the Benefit of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, which was passed by Congress on the 17th Of June, 1862, and became a law, by the approval Of President Lincoln, On the 2d Of July immediately following. Our New England readers will associate the earlier Of these dates with the anniversary Of the battle Of Bunker Hill, the earliest occasion on which the force Of the national arms and the self determining power Of the American people were exhibited to the world. Hereafter the same anniversary will recall to the minds Of scholars the earliest act Of Congress for the promotion of national popular education. Other grants there have been, we are well 'aware, for purposes Of instruction, but this is the first which regards the wants Of all the States. Violence in the Schools Jul 23 2020 This publication, resulting from a survey of more than 2,000 school districts, focuses on school violence and ways to prevent it. Section 1 discusses both the problem of school violence and also the critical role that school boards must play in keeping schools safe. This section also includes information about how school boards can develop policies to combat school violence and information on how boards can obtain sample policies to use as models. Section 2 includes brief descriptions of the more than 700 violence prevention programs used by school districts. These prevention tips are organized into 30 categories (e.g., closed campus for lunch, dress code, gun-free school zones, metal detectors, staff development). Each tip includes: (1) a 15-40 word description of the specific program or activity, based on information provided by the school district; (2) whether the school district is located in an urban, suburban, or rural area; and (3) a contact person and telephone number, if one was provided. Section 3 includes basic information on the school districts that participated in the survey. Districts are listed alphabetically by state. Information in this section, all provided by the school districts, includes the school district name, mailing address, and other pertinent information such as district size and type. The third section also serves as an index to section 2, listing the page numbers on which violence prevention measures from that district appear. (GLR)

Using American Community Survey Data to Expand Access to the School Meals Programs Dec 28 2020 The National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs, administered by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), are key components of the nation's food security safety net, providing free or low-cost meals to millions of schoolchildren each day. To qualify their children each year for free or reduced-price meals, many families must submit applications that school officials distribute and review. To reduce this burden on families and schools and to encourage more children to partake of nutritious meals, USDA regulations allow school districts to operate their meals programs under special provisions that eliminate the application process and other administrative procedures in exchange for providing free meals to all students enrolled in one or more school in a district. FNS asked the National Academies' Committee on National Statistics and Food and Nutrition Board to convene a panel of experts to investigate the technical and operational feasibility of using data from the continuous American Community Survey (ACS) to estimate students eligible for free and reduced-price meals for schools and school districts. The ACS eligibility estimates would be used to develop "claiming percentages" that, if sufficiently accurate, would determine the USDA reimbursements to districts for schools that provided free meals to all students under a new special provision that eliminated the ongoing base-year requirements of current provisions. Using American Community Survey Data to Expand Access to the School Meals Program was conducted in two phases. It first issued an interim report (National Research Council, 2010), describing its planned approach for assessing the utility of ACS-based estimates for a special provision to expand access to free school meals. This report is the final phase which presents the panel's findings and recommendations.
