As a companion to The Wind Ensemble Sourcebook and Biographical Guide, this catalog provides a comprehensive listing of wind ensemble works from 1650 to the present. These two volumes will be completed with a third, The Wind Ensemble Thematic Catalog 1700-1900. Representing more than 20 years of research through libraries, monasteries, castles, the authors used primary sources when possible rather than relying on secondary sources. The authors gathered a vast array of information from public and private international collections. This catalog is an exhaustive guide to international wind ensemble collections. The authors have been careful to match up various versions of the same work, and, for the first time, arrangements—an important and large part of the repertoire—are dealt with in a systematic way. Unique in its extensive documentation and reliance on primary sources, The Wind Ensemble Catalog is an important research tool for scholars and musicians. During the late Byzantine period (1261-1453), a significant number of works were translated from Latin, but also from Arabic and other languages, into Greek. Most of them are still unedited and available in editions that do not meet the modern academic criteria. Nowadays, these translations are attracting attention, as it is widely recognized that, besides their philological importance per se, they can shed light on the interactions between late Byzantines and their neighbours or predecessors. To address this desideratum, this volume focuses on the cultural context, the translators and the texts produced during the Palaeologan era, extending to the end of 15th c. in ex-Byzantine territories. By shedding light on the translation activity of late Byzantine scholars, this volume aims at revealing the cultural aspect of late Byzantine openness to its neighbours. Pentium III/800; 128MB; 40MB Festplatte; 1024x786 Grafik; 20-fach-CD-ROM-Laufwerk; Soundkarte This book demonstrates for the first time that Mozart's opera Die Zauberflöte is an enactment of the alchemical opus magnum, in the form of a chemical process using Paracelsus's tria principia doctrine that was strongly prevalent among Freemasons towards the end of the 18th century. The tercentenary of Marc-Antoine Charpentier's death in 2004 stimulated a surge of activity on the part of performers and scholars, confirming the modern assessment of Charpentier (1643-1704) as one of the most inventive composers of the French Baroque. The present book provides a snapshot of Charpentier scholarship in the first years of the new century. Its 13 chapters illustrate not only the sheer variety of strands currently pursued, but also in which these strands frequently intertwine and generate the potential for future research. Between them, the chapters address facets of the composer's compositional language and process, aspects of his performance practice and notation, the contexts within which he worked, and the nature of his legacy. The appendix contains a transcription of the inventory of Charpentier's manuscripts prepared when their sale to the Royal Library was negotiated in 1726 - an invaluable tool, as numerous chapters in the book demonstrate. The wide variety of topics covered here will appeal both to those interested in Charpentier's music and to those with a broader interest in the music and culture of the French Baroque, including aspects of patronage, church and theatre. Far from treating his output in isolation, this book places it in a wider context alongside such composers as Lully, Lalande, Marais, Fran's Couperin and Rameau; it also views the composer in relation to his Italian training. In the process, the under-examined question of influence - who influenced Charpentier? whom did he influence? - repeatedly comes to the fore. The book's Foreword was written by H. W. Hitchcock shortly before he died. Hitchcock's own part in raising the profile of Charpentier and his music to the recognition which it now enjoys cannot be emphasized enough. Appropriately the volume is dedicated to his memory. The revised edition for Suzuki Violin School, Volume 6 is now available. Like the other revised violin books, the music has been edited by the International Violin Committee. Titles: * La Folia (A. Corelli/S. Suzuki) * Sonata No. 3 in F Major, HWV 370 (G. F. Handel) * Allegro (J.-H. Fiocco) * Gavotte (J. Ph. Rameau) * Sonata No. 4 in D Major, HWV 371 (G. F.
