Essay from the year 2017 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1.8, , language: English, abstract: In the contemporary world, there is no business without communication. To most entrepreneurs in the 21st century, social media use in business is seemingly the "next big thing". The emergence of an online technology that allows reaching of big crowds without necessarily meeting them has presented a temporary yet essential fad that ought to be appropriately made use of while it is still in the spotlight. To this group of entrepreneurs, reaching out the virtual market has presented itself as a stepping-stone to, not only establish their brands, but also to make it earn acceptance in the market. Others have even gone further to establish online shops where customers can easily order and wait for their products to be delivered without having to necessarily visit the product stores. Unfortunately, however, there exists a population to which social media marketing is a buzzword without any practical advantage and steep. They envision it to be a complicated learning curve that further makes their business life unexpectedly complex. With regards to the different approaches to social media, this paper will look at both the negative and the positive aspects of using social media as a tool for running business operations. Seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics - Miscellaneous, grade: very good, language: English, abstract: Cynthia Fanning stated, "To be competitive, we have to look for every opportunity to improve efficiencies and productivity while increasing quality. Lean manufacturing principles have improved every aspect of our processes (Wheeler, C., 2016)." The chapters presented next give a definition of lean manufacturing and how Jaguar implemented the lean manufacturing process in its production. Those two chapters are followed by real-world examples that succeed and fail by applying lean methods to their business. The paper concludes with a personal and professional takeaway based on the reviewed case study about Jaguar. The aim of this work is to give an overview of lean manufacturing. Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Law - Civil / Private / Trade / Anti Trust Law / Business Law, grade: 1,3, University of Hamburg, course: Öffentliches Wirtschaftsrecht mit Schwerpunkt Europäisches und Internationales Wirtschaftsrecht, language: English, abstract: In the last three decades, international arbitration has experienced a remarkable growth and become an important and widely used instrument in the resolution of international disputes. This paper deals with the main advantages and disadvantages of arbitration in the context of international contract law and is based primarily on two references: the textbook The Principles and Practice of International Commercial Arbitration, by Margaret L. Moses (2008), and the homepage of The International Chamber of Commerce (2013). Seminar paper from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics - Personnel and Organisation, printed single-sided, grade: A, University of Cambridge, language: English, abstract: The application of traditional recruitment techniques do not suffice anymore and are also not well-timed in order to bring in satisfactory pool of competent candidates. Through early-1990s, with the progression associated with online technologies, many have experienced the particular shift from the traditional recruitment techniques to e-recruitment. The web-based recruitment blends software programs as well as infrastructure, in addition to resume repositories which assist the particular clients in their recruitment operations. Internet lookups are actually very popular among the people looking for work. Resumes delivered via the web as well as through e-mail could be scanned to get key phrases, determining essential information, abilities, proficiency, as well as working experience, hence lowering hands-on procession and probable mistakes. This elevates the effectiveness around choosing competent as well as a trustworthy workforce, lowers long term turnover, and recruits completing online documents presumptively use much less resources compared to that that post papers application packages. Companies can access job hunters spanning the planet and usually get far more applications. The process is cheaper for companies and also more expedited. Even though career boards have the ability to deal with extremely high quantities of both people looking for work as well as employers, they tend to not achieve high quality. The systems are not simple and also harmless enough to be made use of by comparatively unskilled end users; they lack a 'personal feel', raise confidentiality, security, authentication, and cheating issues. The systems additionally discriminate against some applicants due to badly developed hiring platforms. Integration of e-recruiting with convectional recruiting may also be Seminar paper from the year 2012 in the subject Pedagogy - School System, Educational and School Politics, University of Dodoma (College of Education), course: Management of Organizational Behaviour in Education, language: English, abstract: Group Decision-Making in schools: Advantages and Disadvantages By Mohamed Msoroka Assistant Lecturer of the University of Dodoma-Tanzania College of Education Department of Education Foundations and Continuing Education Introduction This paper provides critical and summarized information about group decision making. However, the major points highlighted in this paper are: the group decision making methods, advantages and disadvantages of group decision making, and things to consider when applying group decision making. The paper is organized in three main parts; the introduction, main body and conclusion. The main body specifically contains the methods of group decision making, the advantages and disadvantages of group decision making and the things to consider when applying group decision making. The conclusion warns about the necessity of being aware when the educational managers opt to use whether group decision-making or individual decision making. Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Economics - International Economic Relations, grade: 2,0, University of applied sciences Frankfurt a. M., course: Advanced Business English, language: English, abstract: Globalization is one of the major topics and challenges of our time. It describes the process of the worldwide increasing interconnection of economy, politics, culture and environment. This compression affects individuals, society and institutions as well as countries. It can help to increase prosperity, social justice and global networking in order to make the world more equal. In the following seminar paper, the prime importance will be the look at the effects of globalization on the world economy in general. Despite the advantages of globalization, the negative side with all the disadvantages should not be neglected. Therefore, it is essential to look at the advantages and disadvantages that are created by globalization. The question is to ask, if globalization really has the force to make the world more equal and who are the winners or the losers of it? The available seminar paper tries to answer that question with a critical analysis of the topic. Chapter two pays attention to the fact what globalization really is and tries to identify the major characteristics of globalization. Chapter three concentrates on the consequences and effects of globalization on the world economy. The fourth chapter tries to identify the advantages and disadvantages. The seminar paper ends with a short result in chapter five, providing a short summary of the whole theme. This timely study of municipal trade offers a nuanced examination of the potential benefits and drawbacks of public ownership and management of utilities and other essential services. Written by the distinguished British economist and social reformer Leonard Darwin, it provides a comprehensive overview of the historical, economic, and social factors shaping the debate over municipal trade, and it highlights the key challenges facing policymakers and citizens today. Absorption chillers have a proven history of providing low-cost reliable cooling and should continue to do so in the future. Absorption chiller systems can provide significant energy savings for a particular application. To maximize savings, the various system arrangements should be evaluated; for example, single effect versus double effect, chiller versus chiller/heater, straight absorption chiller or the electric/absorption hybrid. Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject Business economics - Accounting and Taxes, grade: 2,0, University of Glamorgan, language: English, abstract: Sustainability is developing in as important target for an increasing number of industries and governments. Especially in a faster moving world, which is determined by quarterly period reports, a long term orientation can be a competitive advantage for unlisted companies. In the 1960 's the US Department of Defense began to develop a tool to handle increasing costs. They recognized that the purchase price was not the only important criteria. Training or maintaining costs had to be considered for the total cost calculation, too. However, several definitions of Life cycle costing (LCC) exist that tend to be similar: 'monitoring the cost incurred throughout a product's life cycle' (Woodward, 1997) or 'LCC is the sum of all costs incurred during the life cycle of a building, system or product. It includes the costs of the project, development, and acquisition, operation, conservation and maintenance and salvage value if it exists.' (Goralczyk, and Kulczycka, 2005). In the following essay several functions of life cycle costing will be drawn up. Furthermore, advantages, disadvantages and criticism of this procedure will be analyzed. "The verdict was delivered around 3:15 p.m. on April 29, 1992. People were enraged. Despite video showing Sergeant Stacey Koon and Officers Laurence Powell, Timothy Wind, and Theodore Briseno beating an unarmed African American motorist, a mostly White jury failed to convict the officers of the assault and excessive use of force against Rodney King. Within minutes, large crowds mobilized in and around the city of Los Angeles. For the next several days, the Los Angeles metropolitan area was teeming with assaults, looting, arson, and even murder. President H. W. Bush addressed the nation two days after the protests began.1 He focused on the "incidents of random terror and lawlessness." He argued that what was taking place was "not about civil rights. . . . It's not a message of protest. It's been the brutality of a mob, pure and simple." President Bush's focus on the property damage and violence was an effort to delegitimize the protesters' grievances. It was an attempt to justify the mobilization of thousands of law enforcement agents to Los Angeles. 2 He gave an extensive description of the law and order measures that were being deployed in response to the protests, and he only briefly discussed of how he planned to address the grievances that incited the protest. President Bush insisted that "[in] a civilized society, there can be no excuse - no excuse - for the murder, arson, theft, and vandalism that have terrorized the law-abiding citizens of Los Angeles"--- Emily is the smallest person in her class. She sometimes finds it hard to exist in this big people's world. there are good and bad things about being small. She sometimes finds it frustrating but knows there are some advantages. This is Emily's perspective. This Assignment with the topic "Which arguments are in favour respectively against joining the Eurozone from a countries perspective?" was created in the first semester "economy" module to obtain the „Master of Business Administration“. The Euro can't be evaluated inde-pendently from the EU, therefore, at first, this document gives basic information by explain-ing and defining the European Union (EU) and the Euro. The second part shows, instead, the advantages and disadvantages from certain perspectives. Finally it gives a summarising statement and an outlook for the future. Bachelor Thesis from the year 2008 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,2, Maastricht University (School of Business and Economics), course: -, language: English, abstract: 1. General introduction Up to now, it has always been the task of marketing to be close to the customer and to know how to reach him in order to ultimately increase sales of the company's product or service. This focus on customer acquisition is widespread among companies, and many companies consider this to be sufficient in order to survive in the business world. Nonetheless, a vital flaw of this common view is that there is more than just focusing all efforts on acquiring new customers - That is, convincing the customer that it pays for him/her to continue doing business with the provider, which is called customer retention. Enter Customer Relationship Management (CRM). Throughout this paper, the definition of a CRM will be equivalent to the interpretation by Payne and Frow (2005), who state that CRM is a strategic approach that is concerned with creating improved shareholder value through the development of appropriate relationships with key customers and customer segments (Payne and Frow, 2005a). In the 1990s, organizations recognized the need for not relying on customer acquisition all alone, and stressing the relationship with the customer became imperative in the business world's strategic orientation. Unfortunately, implementing CRM systems turned out to require more work than the plain desire to be chosen as a provider over and over again. A great source of uncertainty was the vague definition of relationship management itself. Another pitfall was how to establish a CRM system in an organization. As relationship management was not up to executives' expectations, many companies were disappointed by the results - And yet, there were companies that succeeded in implementing a CRM system. Taking a closer look a Pre-University Paper from the year 2006 in the subject Communications - Interpersonal Communication, Kenya Methodist University, course: Communications, language: English, abstract: This paper entails the positive and negative characteristics and nature of oral or verbal communication and written communication. The purpose of the study is to leave the readers to judge which of the two communication types are the best, or whether they are both equally important. Essay from the year 2013 in the subject English - Applied Geography, grade: 1,0, University of Malta (English Department), language: English, abstract: This essay discusses the advantages and disadvantages of the contemporary British Monarchy.  Diese Arbeit beschäftigt sich mit den zeitgemäßen Vor- und Nachteilen der Monarchie in Großbritannien und diskutiert auch die Möglichkeit ihrer weiteren Aufrechterhaltung. There are many challenges that are facing the human species. As the human race advances further into the 21st century, some of the crises and issues we face include a rapidly expanding world population, increasing air pollution and in our water supply, dwindling water resources and climate changes. Another growing issue that we as a race need to address is finding ways to sustain our food supply. As farmable land becomes scarcer with increasing populations and a scarcity of farmers to help cultivate our lands for crops, finding alternative methods for growing crops to sustain life becomes a pressing concern.
